

We thank God that the construction of our Pleroma School for Girls has already started. With the foundation laid, the school construction is well on its way. Upon completion, the School will open up windows and pave new roads for these girls from poor and needy families in the community. We are inviting you to join hands with us in empowering these girls with good education. Indeed, "we love because He first loved us!" May the chime of Christmas bells once again move us to extend our love to Cambodia, a distant land where there are girls whose lives await transform through the saving grace of our incarnate Christ! Indeed, we need you to support us and partner with us through prayers and generous donation. Can we count on you during this gifting season of Christmas?

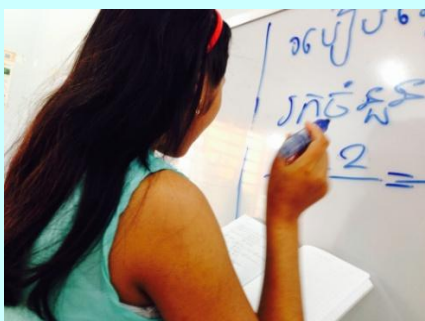

Co-laboring with you,

Lily Lee

Srey does not need medication to fall asleep now. She also remembers to pray daily for her mother and her six younger siblings. Her dream is to someday re-unite with them, no more living in different shelters to stay away from their abusive father. Since four, Srey's father and uncle repeatedly raped her. Her father even forced her older brother to perform the same evil act on her. Her helpless mother could only bring her to see the doctor, who then talked her into letting Srey to be his live-in child servant. Several times, he injected her with drugs and raped her. Upon her mother's questioning, the doctor said that Srey made all these up due to her confused mental state. Finally, one and a half years ago, Srey became so traumatized that she broke down completely. She was only thirteen at that time. Her younger brother called Chab Dai Coalition hotline, and was then put into our Pleroma Home for Girls. Upon receiving counseling and therapy, Srey slowly healed. She then joined our catch-up program, and started studying hard from grade 1 (see picture). She also learns how to protect herself now, and increasingly has faith that her dream will very soon become a reality.

Today Phay is able to smile at others. She also likes to listen to Bibles stories and to have the teachers pray for her. Phay's father left her and the family when she was very young. At thirteen, a relative of her stepfather raped her and brought her across the border to Vietnam. She was then forced to work in a casino, and was raped daily. The man frequently moved her around from one casino to another. Eventually, her mother got hold of her and "rescued" her back to Cambodia. She was put into World Hope International, and then transferred to our Pleroma Home for Girls in 2012. Phay came to our Home with severe symptoms of depression and eating disorder - she never talked or laughed. All she could say was "I am not happy!" Now, Phay is learning to take care of her younger sisters in our Home. Twice she has tried to take exams to enter regular schools, but failed. Now she is learning to be a beautician in a Beauty School, and often practices her skills at Home (see picture). Her dream is to be independent, and to open a beauty parlor with her sister-in-law when she is able to leave the Home.
